SUMMER FERREL RELEASED.

Fees too Small for The Deputy Marshal to Act.

Summer Ferrel, a young man who has been working in this vicinity in the capacity of a farm hand, was arrested by city Marshal Brock on Monday, charged with larceny. It seems that young Ferrel spent Sunday night at the home of Mr. Woodard, north of town, and sometime during his sojourn he appropriated to his own use a pocket book containing $3.16 in cash belonging to a son of the elder Woodard.

After Ferrel's departure the theft was discovered and Mr. Woodard came to town and informed the officers. Ferrel came in on Monday and was taken into custody by city Marshal Brock, and all the money except five cents, was found on his person. A United States Marshal was notified and requested to come and take charge of the prisoner, but he declined to do so on account that the expense would be greater than his fees in the case.

The prisoner was released Tuesday, as the city authorities had no jurisdiction in the matter, the crime having been committed outside of the city limits.—Muldrow Press of Dec., 17th.
